COMMISSIONERS' COURT IN REGULAR SESSION

Medina County Commissioners' Court met Monday, August 13th, at 10 A. M. in regular August term, with the following members present: Arthur H. Rothe, County Judge; J. J. Bippert, Commissioner Precinct No. 2; O. W. Tondre, Commissioner Precinct No. 3; Fred Bowman, Commissioner Precinct No. 4; S. A. Jungman, County Clerk, and J. M. Fusselman, Sheriff, John G. Britsch, Commissioner of Precinct No. 1, was absent.

The Court examined the quarterly report of the County's business; all vouchers issued were ordered cancelled and that the County Treasurer have his proper receipts.

The bond of A. J. Finger of D'Hains required of a public weigher was received and approved.

Court considered the request of Sheriff Fusselman that Medina County purchase a new car for the Sheriff's office. Upon motion made by Com. Bowman, seconded by Com. Bippert, and upon vote called for by the County Judge unanimously carried that Medina County make the purchase of a new car as requested, with the understanding that the present Sheriff's office car be taken in at ceiling price in the purchase of a new car. The new car is to be a Chevrolet.

The finance report showing conditions of all funds, and receipts and disbursements covering the second quarter of the year 1945 was received by the Court, was approved and ordered printed one time in one of the County papers.

Court set August 20th at 10 A. M. for a hearing on the County Budget for the year 1946, and ordered that the legal notice be given as required under law.

Court recessed until August 20th at 10 A. M.

WRITES FROM GERMANY

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Leinweber received a letter written July 22nd, in Germany from their son, M/Sgt. Raymond L. Leinweber, telling them that he had been awarded the Bronze Star Medal. He wrote:

"I was surprised Saturday that they called me at the Bn. Hqs. and showed me the order where I was given the Bronze Star Medal for evacuating broken down trucks and getting parts to keep them rolling on that fast move we made coming across Germany in the thick of battle, so it gives me another medal to wear and 5 more points so I go from 74 to 79 points. * * * I won't get to come home until Feb. or March next year and I am now attached to the 3rd Army at a town called Possa near Austria. We are doing nothing much but get ready for a cold winter here near the Alps mountains and wait for our turn to go home."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON COUNTY BUDGET

VJ-DAY HAILED AT AIRBASE

Military and civilian personnel of Hondo Army Air Field formally hailed the news of Japan's unconditional surrender at a mass ceremony held Wednesday morning behind Post Headquarters.

Speaking to the assembly over a public address system, Col. Robert B. Davenport, Post commander, announced a holiday for the field.

The Post chaplain led in prayer, after which Col. Davenport was introduced by Lt. Col. Alsey C. Miller.

Col. Davenport stated that "this victory has not been won by any one nation, nor by any one department of war. VJ-Day has been achieved by team work among all elements of armed forces, industry and labor, and other civilian cooperation, as well as through excellent coordination and cooperation with our allies."

The colonel reminded his listeners that "the Army Air Forces is now faced with tremendous problems in providing occupational forces, and in returning large numbers of persons and materials to the United States."

Referring to the dramatic secret weapons of the United Nations, he observed that "we who make up the United Nations have now become guardians of a grave responsibility—the future peace of the world."

He concluded with, "every person in the AAF has contributed to victory and has full reason to be justly proud of his part on the team, regardless of how large or how small."

The Post's holiday was climaxed by free victory dances at the Officers' club, the Sergeants' club and at the Service club. A free picture at the Post theater ran throughout Wednesday, beginning immediately after the assembly was dismissed.

Although the airbase received the news of the War's end with jubilation, it was observed that a high degree of orderliness was maintained. This reflected a remark by the colonel, during the assembly, to the effect that "we must not forget that to many American homes this is not only a day of joy, but a day of sorrow. We must conduct ourselves during this holiday with a dignity that will not do an injustice to the memory of the soldiers who made this day possible, but who are not with us today to see their dreams of peace come true."

FOOTBALL TAKES OVER AT HONDO FIELD

King football reared its head at the airbase this week as Lt. Bob Coe, former gridiron assistant to Amos Alonzo Stagg of the College of the Pacific, held his initial practice session early in the week.

Thirty team hopefuls turned out for the Monday afternoon practice. Coe expressed pleasure at the spirit with which the candidates tackled the first day's work, which consisted mainly of blackboard work on pass and punt formations, with a light touch of conditioning.

At least twelve of the men tipped the scales at better than 200 pounds, and several others were just a notch under that mark.

Although Coe feels that his line potential looks very promising, he still is keeping a sharp lookout for the triple-threat back he needs for the wide-open passing system of Stagg's that the Hondo club will adopt in 1946.

In Bill Huston, holdover from the 1944 squad, HAAF will have a big, bruising halfback with plenty of speed. Huston's talents, however, must be supplemented with two sets of alternate speedsters who can hold down the tailback assignment. When the Hondo eleven really digs in and starts active scrimmage the latter part of next week, Coe is hopeful that someone in his present squad will come up with the necessary goods. Approximately 12 other potential players have not yet reported for practice, some of them being on leave and furlough, and others not immediately available for military reasons.

John Rabold, giant 265 tackle of last year, is back in the Hondo line and looking two pounds bigger than ever. A leg injury will keep him out of active play for two weeks. Ernst Glauner, 1944 center, is another repeat performer who may bolster the HAAF forward wall. Blocking back Stan Alberchinski of the 1944 line-up joined the 1945 competition Tuesday. His booming kicks will be useful in 1945.

Two members of the Comet baseball squad are on the tryout roster and look promising. They are catcher R. E. Jenkins, a back, and center-fielder Ed Sobczak, end or back.

The HAAF line will be considerably bolstered by the presence of burly Lloyd Earl at center. The big linesman has had college and some professional experience.

Coe reckons his team's chances for a successful season on whether or not the passing combo clicks. Franklin Faske, a creditable passer from last season, is scheduled to return to the field this week from a military assignment, as is Sam Laskin. Both men have college backgrounds and should add much to the backfield strength.

Assisting Coe in the business departments of the game are Maj. Frank Sheffield, business manager; team manager Pat Fabrizio and asst. mgr. Joe Catrazola. Statistics and rosters will be maintained by August Trovaoli.

The Hondo schedule is still a bit on the tentative side. The club opens against Ellington Field of Houston at Hondo September 15. That's definite.

Then come: Hondo Field at Bergstrom (Austin), Oct. 5; Blackland AAF at Hondo Oct. 13; Hondo Field versus Fort Warren, Wyo., at Omaha, Neb. Oct. 20 (tentative); Hondo Field at Ellington in a return game Oct. 26; Hondo Field versus Amarillo Nov. 3, site undetermined; and Hondo Field versus Drake U. at Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 24, another tentative game.

That leaves three open dates for the Coe squad. These dates will be filled by local engagements only, according to the team's business manager.

ATTENTION, VOTERS

A statewide election will be held on Saturday, Aug. 25th, of this month, and voters are urged to cast their ballots against all amendments excepting one, which is to provide that soldiers in time of war to vote without a poll tax. If you fail to come to the poll you will thereby assist the Socialists to socialize this country the same as happened to England last month.

No. 1. To allow soldiers to vote without a poll tax in time of war should be adopted.

No. 2. To increase the supreme court to nine members, should be defeated. Why should 6 more lawyers draw high salaries where three can do the work?

No. 3. Increase pay of the Legislature to $3500.00 a year should be smashed to oblivion. They are in session four months every two years, and to pay for 20 months for not doing anything would not only be foolish but would almost amount to a crime to the tax-payers, and would increase the cost by more than $400,000.00.

No. 4. To place a ceiling on spending for welfare, is just a trick to get you to vote for it. Vote against this, for in one breath it appears there should be a ceiling on spending, and then in the other breath it endeavors to raise the amounts distributed. This amendment is of communistic origin, for if this amendment is adopted it will pull the thrifty down to make the lazy, lazier. A Welfare State is socialistic and communistic.

Law, which is the last item on the ballot, which is the last item on the ballot, and keep this county free from socialism. If the former stock law was invalid, then those fined under it must have their fines returned. Vote against it and don't let anyone make a mockery out of your vote.

A VOTER.

MARRIES IN ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. John Coffey announce the marriage of their oldest son, S/Sgt. Roy Wilson Estes, to Miss Trena Sharrock, second daughter of Mrs. J. Sharrock, 83 Cemetery Rd., Darwin Lane's, England. Rev. T. R. Sharp performed the ceremony on July 2, 1945, at Park Road Methodist Church. The bride was given away by her brother-in-law, W. E. Dickerson, and wore a gown of white angel skin trimmed with Brussels lace embroidered in pearls, and a hairdress of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of red carnations.

The reception was held at High Law Private Hotel, after which the happy pair left for their honeymoon on the west coast of England. The bride traveled in a grey suit with white chalk stripes and blue accessories. The future residence of Sgt. and Mrs. Estes is 83 Cemetery Rd., Darwin Lane's, England, and later Bandera, Texas.—Contributed.

VETERAN AT BROOKE GEN- ERAL HOSPITAL

Among recent arrivals at Brooke Convalescent Hospital, Brooke Hospital Center, Fort Sam Houston, Texas, is Alvin H. Wolff, Technician Fourth Grade, veteran of the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of Operations. Wolff has been granted a thirty day furlough and is at present visiting his family, friends, and relatives.

Wolff is the son of Mrs. Jane K. Wolff of 722 Highland Boulevard, San Antonio, Texas, and Hondo, Texas. He entered the Army November 21, 1940, and served twenty-four months overseas as a member of Service Troop, 12th Regiment, 1st Cavalry Division, in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater of Operations, in New Guinea, Admiralty Islands, and Leyte and Luzon of the Philippine Islands.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS

MIAMI, FLA., Aug. 14.—Speeded toward home from overseas as part of the "Green Project" which calls for the Air Transport Command's Caribbean Division to fly 30,000 returnees from Europe to Miami Army Air Field each month, another Medina County man is back in the states. In less than 24 hours he left for Camp Blanding, Fla., by rail. From there he will go to a reception center near home for furlough prior to reassignment.

T/5 Allen P. Ihnken, 35, of Castroville, Texas, returned from Germany on August 7th, after 29 months in the European Theater of Operations. Ihnken, with the 36th RCN Troop of the Cavalry, has been awarded 5 Battle Stars and one Arrowhead.

CASTROVILLE TO HAVE AN- NUAL CELEBRATION

St. Louis Parish of Castroville will hold its annual homecoming celebration Sunday, August 26th, at Wernette's Garden. Barbecue dinner will be served at 11:30 A. M. Keno and other amusements will also be provided. The Committee on Arrangements elsewhere in this paper extends an invitation to everyone to attend.

NEWS NOTES

Rev. Lorring—"Mental Banker"

At the club last Saturday evening, Rev. M. J. Lorring showed his "mental banker" powers (excuse us, Dr. IQ). With an enthusiastic audience, Dr. IQ (we mean Rev. Lorring) threw questions here and there and received many favorable answers. So many answers that quite an amount of war stamps were paid out.

The Quiz Show started off with a good "community" sing with Miss Dell Scott at the piano. This served to put the audience in a fine fettle to answer the "very tough" questions.

Each contestant had an opportunity to choose the category in which the questions were asked. Those who participated and shared in the winnings were: Glenn C. Terry, Logan, Utah; A/S Leonard A. Cross, Des Moines, Iowa; T/Sgt. and Mrs. S. F. Davis, Detroit, Michigan; A/S Gilbert Fishman, Brooklyn, New York; Pvt. Percy Mans, Santa Rosa, New Mexico; A/C Hector Blanco, El Paso, Texas; Alfred Mein and Mrs. Alfred Mein, Chicago, Illinois; Col. and Mrs. M. Hart, Ridgefield, Connecticut. While there were no Jack Pot winners this prize was divided among the four contestants: A/C Albert C. Audick, So. Boston, Massachusetts; J. Galvin, Brooklyn, New York; Cpl. Simon Robinson, Middletown, New York, and A/C Robert H. Burt, Fort Worth, Texas.

Wanted—Photos of Dogs

The Hondo USO Shutterbug Club is opening a contest for the selection of the three best photographs of dogs. The contest is open now and will continue through September 16th. This is being held in conjunction with National Dog Week which runs from September 16th thru September 22nd. The contest will be open to all members of the armed forces and their immediate families. Photos should be no larger than 8 x 10.

The three prize winners will be announced and the prizes awarded at the meeting of the Shutterbug Club on September 17th.

Watch the paper for further news regarding this contest.

Temporary Staff Change

Miss Ruth Estes, Assistant Director, will be absent from the Hondo USO Club until the first of September while she fills a temporary position in Amarillo, Texas. During her absence, Mrs. Louise Allen Bell will replace Miss Estes as assistant director. Mrs. Bell held this position prior to the arrival of Miss Estes.

Weekend at USO

The Junior Service Corps will again sponsor a dance at the Hondo High School gym on Saturday evening, August 18th. Music will be furnished by the HAAF band and dancing will begin at 8:30.

Prior to the dance the weekly Sing Song with Miss Dell Scott at the piano will be held. The "Hour of Songs" will start at 7 P. M.

The Arts and Crafts room will be open all day Saturday as it is any other day in the week.

On Sunday the following schedule will be followed:

Shellcraft—2 to 6 P. M.
Social Hour—3 to 4 P. M.

Movies—4 P. M. and 8:15 P. M.
"Manila Calling" with Lloyd Nolan and Carole Landis.

Wives' Activities

The Wives' Luncheon met Tuesday and enjoyed a delicious and well prepared menu. A "get acquainted" meeting was held later and each girl gave her name and the state she was from.

The girls on KP this week were: Elizabeth Fredrick and Lois Patterson. The cooking committee for next week is: Betty Sherman, June Bitter, Virgie Breiten, and Kay Monahan.

Mrs. Louise Allen Bell is acting assistant director in Miss Ruth Estes' absence and is in charge of the wives' luncheon.

We extend an invitation to all service men's wives to come in and join in these pleasant get-togethers.

Our Thanks

Thank you, S/Sgt. Pat Baumgartner, Sgt. Ward, Sgt. B. Brooks, Pfc. Jimmy Hyle, Pfc. Bill Murray and Cpl. Simon W. Robinson, for your valuable assistance in the completion of the second Dark Room.

Other Weekly Activities

Monday—Shellcraft, 2 to 5 P. M.; Shutterbug Club, 7:30 P. M.
Tuesday—Handicraft, 1 to 6 P. M.; Bingo, 8:30 P. M.

Wednesday—Bridge, 8 P. M.
Thursday—Red Cross Bandage Folding, 1 P. M.; USO Scrapbook.

Friday—Wives' Card Party, 2 P. M.; Classical Record Hour, 7 P. M.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Atomic-Bomb and Russ Attack Signal Japan's Acceptance of Unconditional Surrender Terms

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Following in lightning succession, the U. S. use of atomic bombs and Russia's entrance into the conflict signalled the finish to the Pacific war, which had been waged with such bitterness since December of 1941.

With the second of its great industrial cities leveled by the terrific new explosive, and with Russian troops driving deep into Manchuria and Korea, the Japanese gave the first indication of their decision to throw in the sponge early on August 10 with the Tokyo radio's announcement of acceptance of unconditional surrender terms provided the emperor's position was respected.

Later, the Swedish foreign office revealed that the Japs had asked it to transmit their request for cessation of hostilities to the Allied powers.

Under terms of the unconditional surrender drawn by the U. S., Britain and China at Potsdam, and later subscribed to by Russia, the Japs were required to:

1. Eliminate the influences of those who have directed Jap conquest;
2. Submit to occupation of designated points in the home islands until world peace is assured;
3. Limit Jap sovereignty to the main islands of Honshu, Hokkaido, Kyushu and Shikoku;
4. Give up all foreign conquests;
5. Disarm all forces;
6. Remove all obstacles to freedom of speech, religion and thought.

In return, the Potsdam terms promised Japan retention of all industries to maintain the civilian economy and provide for reparations in goods; access to raw materials and free trade; and withdrawal of occupation forces upon organization of a peace-minded government in conformance with the wishes of the people.

In first indicating the Jap decision to give up the fight, the Tokyo radio declared that the Nipponese had approached Russia to act as intermediary in peace negotiations with the U. S., Britain and China several weeks ago at the request of the emperor. Having failed to establish contacts, however, the government

A milestone in the scientific age, the earth-shaking potency of the atomic bomb tempered the jubilation at first expressed over its use in hastening the end of the Pacific war.

First objective of the new atomic bomb, the rail and industrial center of Hiroshima on Honshu island lay in ruins, with buildings splintered and an estimated 100,000 persons killed. Only a few concrete structures remained standing in the heart of the city, with even the interior of these burned out by the fires following the explosion. So terrific was the blast, it rocked the B-29, from which the charge was dropped, while it cruised 10 miles distant.

Goal of scientists for over 40 years, and the result of combined U. S. and British research since 1940, the atomic bomb has been secretly produced in two great plants at Richland, Wash., and Oak Ridge, Tenn., with two billions dollars required for its development.

With Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves in overall charge, and with Dr. J. R. Oppenheimer of the University of California heading the technical work, manufacture of the atomic bomb involved the use of uranium, a metallic substance found in southwestern Colorado and eastern Utah as well as in Canada, the Belgian Congo, Austria, Russia, Sweden, Norway and Cornwall.

Principle of the new explosive lies in splitting atoms — the tiniest particles of matter — and releasing the electrical charges they contain with the attendant energy. Besides energy, heat and light can be recovered, thus leading to wide post-war possibilities for the material.

In announcing the use of the atomic bomb with its magical substance, however, Secretary of War Stimson revealed that postwar adaptation of the product to civilian use will require additional experimentation to design machinery capable of harnessing the tremendous force.

Meanwhile, Stimson said, the U. S. intends to share the secret of the atomic bomb only with Britain and Canada, and in speculating on its use as a factor in maintaining peace, it was suggested that the English-speaking Allies would hold on to the explosive and restrict its use on behalf of the United Nations postwar security force to American and British planes.

Regretting that the atomic bomb's inventors did not destroy the weapon, the Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano declared that it "made a deep impression (here), not so much for the use already made of the death instrument, as for the sinister shadow that the discovery casts on the future of humanity." Because people never can learn the lessons of history, the publication said, the atomic bomb will also remain a temptation for unscrupulous statesmen.

EUROPE: New Developments

With America now committed to keeping the peace in Europe, political developments on the stricken continent commanded the nation's attention more closely.

Foremost recent developments included the U. S. and Britain's decision to grant occupied Germany a larger measure of local independence; the Allies' move to separate Austria from the Reich, and plans for the determination of a new government in Yugoslavia.

Declaring that it was up to the Germans themselves to re-establish their country in the eyes of the world, General Eisenhower announced that local trade unions and political parties would be permitted to function wherever the Allied military government ordained. Warning that the winter ahead would be hard, Eisenhower urged the Germans to repair damaged properties now, gather cordwood for fuel since coal will not be available, and go into the fields to harvest a good crop.

In determining to separate Austria from the Reich, the Allies planned for the creation of an independent state in free and open elections, before which the country would be divided into four occupational zones under U. S., British, Russian and French military commanders. The U. S. zone constitutes the north-central portion of Austria below the Danube.

Meanwhile, Yugoslavia prepared to hold a vote on the question of the form of a new government, with Moscow-backed Marshal Tito calling for a republican system excluding the monarchy. Charged with having been identified with Nazi collaborators by Tito, 31-year-old King Peter returned that the country was now under a wave of terror by the Partisans, with all law suspended and no opportunity for a free and open vote on the future character of the government.

Nation's Losses

Within a day America lost an outstanding soldier and an equally notable statesman.

No. 1 U. S. ace of World War II, Maj. Richard Ira (Dick) Bong from Poplar, Wis., died when his jet-propelled "Shooting Star" blew up shortly after a takeoff at Burbank, Calif. Entering the air force in 1941, he then 20-year-old former farm boy topped all other U. S. airmen by shooting down 40 Jap planes in action extending from Australia to the Philippines. Just before the "Shooting Star" exploded, Bong was seen leaping out of the cockpit, only to be caught in the air by the terrific blast.

One of the famed "irreconcilables" who fought to keep the U. S. out of the League of Nations, and also opposed ratification of the United Nations charter, Sen. Hiram W. Johnson (Rep., Calif.) died at the naval hospital at Bethesda, Md., at 79. Always a rugged independent, who tread according to his conscience rather than party interests, Johnson took most pride in his governorship of California from 1910 to 1916, when he led in the adoption of woman suffrage, workmen's compensation and elimination of partisanship in municipal and county elections.

CIVILIAN GOODS: Slow Coming

Though War Production board officials declared that the reconversion program gradually was gathering momentum, there are small prospects that needed civilian goods will reach retailers' counters in sufficient volume before well into 1946.

In reviewing the situation, WPB held out hopes for substantial production of electric irons, baby carriages and alarm clocks during the present quarter, with limited output of washing machines, vacuum cleaners and galvanized cans and pails. To date, only near sufficient quantities of razors, razor blades, hearing-aid batteries and dry cell batteries are being manufactured, it was said.

Though comparatively large amounts of electric ranges, refrigerators, film and lamps and fans are scheduled to be turned out in the present quarter, most will be reserved for military purposes, WPB revealed.

SOUTH AMERICA: Export Surplus

During the years 1940 through 1944, the other American republics accumulated a surplus of exports over imports totalling $3,531,000,000, according to a recent compilation by the federal reserve board in Washington.

In 1944, the compilation shows, the export surplus of these countries was $1,115,000,000 compared with $490,000,000 in 1939, before full effects of the war were felt in western hemisphere trade.

Plans Reorganization Of Labor Department

New Secretary Undertakes Task to Knit Activities of Over 20 Agencies; Seeks to Avert Vet-Union Row.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

It took Hercules just one day to clean the stables where one wealthy but not too sanitary man had kept 10,000 oxen. At least that is the way I heard it at my father's knee. Since my father pioneered in Washington state in the early '90s, I wish he were here now to witness another Washingtonian doing a Herculean job which he hopes to finish by September 1.

I refer to Secretary Schweilenbach, whose assignment is to put the department of labor in order. He isn't going to have to do much cleaning out, but he has been tidying up so that he can bring back under his aegis most of a score of prodigal agencies, all having to do with labor, which are scattered all over the District of Columbia and points north and west.

Most of the labors of Hercules were decidedly thankless ones and were given him for spite because his stepmother, Juno, didn't like her husband's extra-curricular children. Schweilenbach's job is thankless enough, but it wasn't given to man's desk by the first of September.

Reorganization Touchy Problem

The next step would logically be an executive order from the President embodying the Schweilenbach report to make the suggested changes. With his war powers, the President wouldn't have to ask the pleasure of congress. But President Truman doesn't want the changes he makes to be temporary affairs. Like every other president since Grover Cleveland, he has requested powers to reorganize the government and never has congress offered a carte-blanc go-ahead. Such a bill is pending in congress now. However, if the suggestions made by Secretary Schweilenbach were considered reasonable, they might be put into a bill and passed. In any case they will probably be presented before the other measure authorizing wider presidential authority is considered.

In the meantime, labor itself is tending to cloud the atmosphere insofar as acceptance of any efforts to restore full, free, collective bargaining, which the no-strike pledge and various wartime restrictions have virtually suspended. The public is getting very irritated with violations of the no-strike pledge and what many feel to be union demands which, whether or not they appear fair as between labor and management, do not take the consumer into consideration.

Much of the antagonism is due to the feeling of the men who resented strikes while they were in the service. Schweilenbach managed to smooth out one of the toughest veterans versus unions troubles the country ever witnessed back in his home state of Washington after the last war. He admits there is no doubt that such antagonism exists now. "We may as well face it," he says. But he thinks he can handle it.

One habit which Schweilenbach wants to break up, and it is assumed the President wants him to break up, is having labor disputes leap-frog right into the lap of the White House. Some of the old-line labor department officials used to write every time a long, hot telegram went out such as some of those addressed to John Lewis while the coal strike was going on, which were signed by President Roosevelt, but dictated by the War Labor board, which labor and management had snubbed. These old-timers felt that many of the questions could have been settled with the machinery which already existed within the department.

Of course, the War Labor board, which has had all the tasks complicated by the war to perform, will die with V-J Day.

Vows Impartial Labor Department

Other separate agencies dealing with labor will continue. The United States Employment service and the apprenticeship and training program are now part of the War Manpower commission. Social security is run by the social security board. If the movement to create a new department of welfare succeeds, this new set-up might conceivably absorb social security and also the children's bureau, now under the labor department.

The National Labor Relations board, which administers its quasi-judicial functions under the Wagner act, now independent, would have its "housekeeping" done by the department—that is, its financing, personnel and such matters would be under the secretary of labor.

Since Schweilenbach has been in office he has talked to a whole string of labor men and a whole string of management men, too.

"I am not a labor official," he says. "I am a public official." That pretty well sets on his position and, as I said, it makes his job, so far as the lobbies of labor and management go, about as thankless as the labors of Hercules. Congress feels that the labor department is supposed to look after labor interests and what Judge Schweilenbach is shooting at is to have it operate with the impartiality of a court. But his chief concern now is to consolidate under one head all government activities pertaining to labor.

Salt Box and a Pan Holder Rack to Make

HERE is a pair of gifts that will bring joy to any homemaker. The salt box has the graceful proportions of those used in Colonial kitchens, and the rack with cup hooks screwed in place for hot pan holders is designed to harmonize with the box.

Both box and rack are easy to cut out of plywood or thin lumber scraps—either by hand with a coping saw or with a 14

The quilt stencil design may be applied right on the wood with wax crayon and then shellacked to fix the color. The washable finish brings out the brilliance of the crayon colors and at the same time gives a soft antique finish. The stencil also may be used with oil paint if preferred.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared an actual-size pattern for all the pieces of the salt box and the kitchen rack with step-by-step directions for making. A pattern and color guide with complete directions for the stencil design is also included. The pattern may be used over and over for decorating canisters, place mats and other attractive gifts. Foreign Farm Help Jumps in U. S.

Though the number of hired people doing farm work in the United States in midsummer this year reached a new wartime low, the department of agriculture reports that the number of foreign workers and war prisoners working on farms in the United States in midsummer was about 149,000.

The foreign workers come from Mexico, Jamaica, the Bahamas, and Newfoundland. Of the 56,000 Mexicans, most were in the West, but around 8,000 were on farms in the Midwest.

The number of Jamaicans came to around 16,000, and there were about 5,500 Bahamians. While Jamaicans are working through the whole country, the Bahamians are in Florida and other truck-growing areas along the Atlantic seaboard.

Red Raskall

By CLARK M'VEEKEN

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lark Shannon, whose horse, Madoc, was sold to clear a debt when her father died, sails from England for America. David North, whom she loves, was to make the trip with her but sails the night before. Lark's ship goes down, but she reaches land and Galt Withe, a bound servant, finds her on an island and helps her but refuses to bring her to the mainland. The two manage to huddle Lancer, a fine horse who had escaped from the sinking ship and on which a price of 100 pounds has been offered. After some time Galt returns to the island with Cony, who plans to hold her for ransom to David North's firm. They reach the inn and Lark finds herself being carefully watched.

CHAPTER IX

Mag had gone indoors now and Cony returned to his oyster shucking. He was, for the moment, on the far side of the mound, raking the shells with his long wooden fork. Surely she could slip away for a few minutes, Lark thought. Surely she could!

Slowly she edged toward the corner of the inn and stood there in its shelter for a moment, watching, holding her breath. Nothing happened; nothing at all. With cautious deliberation she slid past the outhouses and, still slowly, sauntered toward the bridge. She gained the bridge and crossed it, was in the woods now and started to run after the four who were in sight just ahead, their bright garments glowing like exotic tropical flowers among the shadowed undergrowth.

Lark had time to call out and the satisfaction of seeing the gypsies turn and stand waiting expectantly before the sound came to her. The baying of Old Dog, the rush of his padding feet on the swinging bridge, the sniffing rustle of his paws in the dry grass behind her; it frightened her terribly. She screamed and drew back into the bushes.

It was less than a minute till he found her and fastened his teeth in the fabric of her skirt.

She stood prisoner there till Cony came up on the lope. "I seed un," he panted, "I set Old Dog loose to learn un not to go sneakin' off. Never seed no Roms afore, did un? I seed that boy an' gal smile at un." He nodded sagely. "I wuz a spyin' on un from 'hind the oyster-slope all the while." He threw back his huge yellow head and laughed uproariously. "I didn't tell Mag, sweetmeat, but she'll hear Old Dog bay an' know what-for."

Lark glanced in the direction of the gypsies and called out to them. They shrugged their shoulders with real or feigned indifference and, when Cony made threatening gestures toward them, continued on their way.

Cony broke a switch off a nearby bush and pointed toward the inn. When Lark started back without comment, he ordered Old Dog to release her dress and followed along behind, flicking the switch vaguely in her direction.

Mag was waiting for them in the courtyard. "Go up-attic," she ordered. "No dinner for un this day, girl!"

She came behind Lark up the steep and narrow steps and shut the heavy door quickly, turning the key in the lock on the outside and stamping down without any more words.

It was then that she realized her luck in having Galt's spy-glass hidden under her straw pillow. It was still there. She was thankful Mag hadn't thought to rummage round.

Lark focused the glass eastward toward Ghost Island. How she wished she could see Red Raskall hidden in the dip where the grass was so green and the rock-basin held the water like a cup. She could imagine him there so clearly, awaiting, like herself, his hour of freedom.

She turned the spy-glass then toward the castle. She could distinguish the glint of its red roof among the trees. She could see the gypsy camp below it, spread out on the plateau; the tents, bright patches among the trees, the figures of the men and women moving about in the open space where the cooking fires smoldered like dusky jewels.

David was there somewhere among them, Lark thought. It was a thing scarcely to be believed, that, almost, she could reach out her arms and touch him.

It was nearly dark when Mag stumped up the stairs and unlocked Lark's door, telling her in a surly voice that she had need of her down below.

Following Mag down the steps, she saw now that the long trestle tables had already been set up, and that wine casks had been rolled in and lined the length of the room.

Cony called to Lark, "Here, un, come give me a hand with these platters." He stood in the far corner of the big room beside the wide open-faced Dutch dresser whose high shelves were stacked with trenchers and platters and bowls of every description.

Cony's eyes fell on her and lit up with astonishment and pleasure. "By God," he said softly, "but un's a beauty-bright if ever I seed one. Un looks like that Sheba-queen Parson Withe preached about onct in the brick church at the crossroads. Un's a pretty peach, for sure!"

His voice was soft, but not too soft for Mag to hear. "Sheba-queen, indeed; Jezzybel, more like!" She came at Lark with an upraised hand.

Lark drew back, her eyes blazing in fury. Mag's hand fell to her side. "Go back up-attic," she ordered, "an' see to it that un stays there. I'll soon up an' lock un in. Un's more hinder than help, cozening up to every male-critt in sight."

Lark was afraid that if she made a scene it would be Galt and not she, herself, who would suffer from it, so, under Mag's sharp urging, she went up to her room again.

It was not long till Lark heard the crowd gathering in the room below. Snatches of song and rough loud talk came up to her. She strained her ears to hear David's voice among the others. Finally, she crept from her room and stood at the top of the darkened stairway, bending down, trying to peer into the big room.

She couldn't see the entire group from where she crouched and so, after a moment, edged lower, step by cautious step. Here, from the shadowed corner of the landing she had a good view.

The bright scarfs of the group of gypsy folk splashed color in the far corner of the dim-lit room. They stood a little apart from the sailors, Lark saw. The white haired woman was there, and Dosta and Chal and Ginko. The men's arms were woven around the women's waists and they were swaying and twisting to the tune which Ginko was playing on his fiddle. Their feet moved in an intricate, hypnotic cadence.

It was impossible to tell whether or not David was among the group. Several had their backs to Lark and a few were hidden by the dark shadow of the Dutch dresser.

It was at this moment that some quick dispute flared by the oak settle which banked the fireplace. Lark's eyes shifted to the sudden movement there and discovered Matson, still wrapped in his long black cape. Lark saw at once why Mag had spoken of him as the Spanish Cat. The nickname was an apt one, she realized, as he stepped from the darkened corner.

He stood now, electric with anger, staring haughtily at the black-bearded sailor who had knocked the tray from Galt's hands a few moments ago. Presumably the man had taken some liberty with him which he resented deeply. Almost more quickly than Lark's eye could follow the swift motion, a rapier was gleaming like a silver streak in the air; gleaming one moment and buried deep out of sight the next, as, with a groan, the sailor crumpled in a heap on the dirt floor.

Matson drew a silk handkerchief neatly down the rapier's blood-stained length as he stood, smiling a little, like a dancer, poised beautifully on the balls of his slim feet.

"Pick him up," he said softly, "throw him out into the courtyard. The dog's ready for the dung-pile." His summoning gesture brought two gypsies from the group. With utter unconcern they tossed the dying man into the yard.

Galt was bending over the man, holding a cup of water to his lips. Lark whispered his name so softly that when he turned it was as if he had sensed her presence, rather than heard her. He followed her quickly to the shadows of the trees.

"Galt!" Lark's cold hands clung to his. "Oh, Galt, I'm going to the church. I'm going to try to get there, to the cross-roads. If you could go with me, Galt—"

He shook his head, glancing back fearfully. "They'd miss me," he said, his voice less than sound. "Run, Lark! Once you get away from here you can find help. It's better for you, without me. Past the church you'll—"

He stopped, darted away from her, stood still as Cony opened the door, peering out. Lark slipped away among the trees and out-buildings, running now, making for the dunes and the direction of the church, running faster than she had ever run in her life.

After a time the terrified beating of Lark's heart quieted a little. The very effort it took to walk through the loose sand calmed her. She was out of breath now and gratefully sucked the cool, damp night air down deep into her lungs. Presently a new strength seemed to enter into her.

Though she was still deeply perplexed and frightened, that last glimpse of Galt had been a comfort to her. She felt it had taken a certain courage which she had not known him to possess to be aiding the dying man. A craven would not have done that thing.

Galt would know her whereabouts at the parson's and would get word to her somehow. Their two fates were linked together. Lark knew that and it renewed her own courage.

Lark pushed forward. It was good to thrust her feet deep into the sand and let it seep through the rough sandals. She could feel it under her toes, damp and firm, packing hard under the arches of her feet.

She was strong and young. The tug of the sand was, as yet, no impediment to her. Walking fast and free like this, she felt the night wind behind her, urging her on.

Not far ahead of her Lark could see the church, four-square and white-steepled. The parsonage must lie behind it, just out of her present vision. Lark wondered if the man of God would be angry, being awakened in the middle of the night. Maybe he was deaf, sleeping on his good ear as her father used to do to try and give himself a good night's rest.

She tried the door of the church but found it locked. She crept through the little cemetery where the tombstones stood all awry until she came to the parsonage beyond.

Lark stood for a moment, looking. Then, as the moon came out from behind the clouds, a feeling of desolation and fear came over her. The paling fence was broken and falling away. The windows of the house were gaping wide, and the doorway was a hollow open shell.

Behind Lark there was a sound, a step, quick, pursuing.

She swung round and called out, "Who's there? Galt, is it you?"

The answer came, not in Galt's voice, but in David's.

"Lark, child, what in the world are you doing here?"

In an instant she was in his arms, clinging to him, sobbing out all her fright and dismay. She knew only that David was holding her; David, whom she had loved ever since she was a little girl.

He was holding her close now, as if she were still that little girl, needing the comfort of his protecting care.

"Don't cry that way, Lark," he said gently, "it makes me feel real bad. There isn't anything to be scared of. I'm here with you."

"But, David, you wouldn't speak to me last night. I kept thinking all day you'd come to me and you didn't."

"I couldn't speak to you last night. You shouldn't have called out to me."

"I'm sorry, David. But I was so glad to see you." Lark tried to calm herself now, to take some assurance from David's reasonable tone. His arm was still about her, holding her shivering body against his own. He was so warm, so safe, so strong.

"David, you knew about the Tempora?"

"Not till after I saw you yesterday, Lark. Then somebody told me of the shipwreck."

"It was horrible. I still wake up in the night dreaming about it."

"But you're safe now. You were one of the fortunate ones."

"When I was out there on that dreadful island I didn't feel fortunate. When Clink Swalters, the mate, died and left me, I almost wanted to go with him. I would have wanted to if it hadn't been for the thought of you, the hope I still held onto that we might be together again, be . . . be . . ."

"Be married, Lark? Was that it? We will be married some day, after a bit, when I've got this business with Matson straightened out. I'll be rich then, and safe. Now it's too risky a thing."

"What is it, David? Tell me about it. I don't understand the least little bit. I was so unhappy and confused when I got your note."

"I tried to send you a message by Mother Egypt this morning," he said, "but she had no chance to deliver it. Chal and Dosta said you attempted to follow them. That wasn't wise, Lark."

"But I had to know, David. I wanted to talk to you, and now you won't tell me anything!"

"Darling, I'm ready to tell you everything. What was it specially?"

"Why didn't you come with me, David? Why didn't you keep your promise?"

"Business," David said, "I told you that, honey. My company sent me over to catch Matson who has been black-birding slaves in for years, insuring them for a good round sum and then claiming he loses nearly half on every trip. He sneaks in those he makes the false claim on after his ship has been cleared and hides them away at his castle up the hill till he can dispose of them."

BRITISH LABOR PERSONALITIES

Britain's Labor party which swept Churchill out of office is a strange mixture, resembles the liberal branch of the Democratic party more than any Socialist movement. It has its liberal and its conservative wings, has had no labor troubles similar to ours during the past decade.

Clement Attlee, Britain's new prime minister, is a poor man. . . . He was little known among the fashionable people of England until 1935 when his salary was raised to 2,000 pounds a year. . . . After getting this pay boost, Mrs. Attlee was able to venture into society for the first time, was able to start playing golf, hire enough help to keep her home going. . . . Attlee likes to putter in his garden, to odd jobs around the house, constantly puffs a pipe, is a sharp contrast to fiery, charming Ramsey MacDonald, England's last Labor prime minister. . . . Attlee is no forthright leader, is considered more of an impartial middle man, will have all he can do to keep peace within his own widely split party.

Attlee's greatest rivals for power inside the party are paunchy, jovial Herbert Morrison and hard-headed, deep-voiced, testy Ernest Bevin. . . . Morrison lost his right eye when he was three days old, has had a "leftish" outlook ever since. . . . Morrison has played runner-up to Attlee in many elections, carries on constant behind-the-scenes warfare with Bevin. . . . Bevin had the same war job which Sidney Hillman took over in the OPM after Pearl Harbor—handling labor relations. However, Bevin made a better go of it, fought grimly and successfully for better rations for workers. . . . Morrison is a cockney, has a spry sense of humor, likes to dance, is head of the Labor party in politically potent London. He is also a man of daring, had the ancient tradition-encrusted Waterloo bridge torn down because he found it unserviceable, afterward had traffic rolling more smoothly through the center of London. . . . Morrison is a hard ruler.

Bevin—Union Boss.

Ernie Bevin is a hard-headed union boss. . . . He hates dictatorships but is a dictator in his own union, the giant transport workers. . . . Bevin runs his own union like John L. Lewis runs the mine workers. . . . Outside his union, however, Bevin's labor practices are more like those of Sidney Hillman and Philip Murray. . . . He believes in negotiation rather than strikes. Bevin took a bad trouncing from Winston Churchill in 1926, has never forgiven the ex-prime minister. It was Bevin who called the 1926 general strike in England, a strike which Churchill dealt a shattering blow. . . . Bevin is a forthright anti-Fascist, was against Hitler, Mussolini and the Cliveden set from their inception, was responsible for the tough-minded position his party took internationally from 1933 to the outbreak of war. . . . As leader of the transport workers, Bevin controls considerable of the Labor party, is rough on his enemies, gruff with his friends, losses his patience frequently.

To get feminine support, the new labor government will lean heavily on a red-headed fiery labor M.P., Ellen Wilkinson. . . . Miss Wilkinson is at home in a fight, knows the world, has contempt for Britain's colonial policies, is a scrapper from the word go. . . . She knows about riots and bloodshed first hand, was in the thick of the black and tan trouble in Ireland, even led hunger marchers on London during the depression. . . . Miss Wilkinson lives in the Bohemian Bloomsbury section of London surrounded by poets, painters, actors and writers; has persuaded many of them to pitch into labor's fight. . . . Blunt and forthright, Miss Wilkinson was the first member of parliament to defend King Edward's marrying American-born Wallis Simpson. . . . In one speech she said, "We say that if a woman is good enough to be a man's wife, she is good enough to take her side by him as his equal in whatever rank of life intended."

Another powerful figure in the new Attlee government will be tall, spare hard-headed Arthur Greenwood, recently minister of postwar reconstruction. . . . Greenwood was responsible for what little slum clearance the MacDonald government undertook. . . . A member of Churchill's cabinet, Greenwood never was known as a radical or a great liberal, is a seasoned bureaucrat, knows his way around government, is an able talker.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend sincere and profound thanks for the various words and acts of kindness during the lingering illness of Mrs. C. Weeber, for the consoling words by Revs. M. J. Lorfing and John A. Scherzer, San Antonio, for the timely selections of the choir, and for the most profuse and incomparably beautiful floral offerings from individual friends and congregations far and near, as well as for the various Memorial Wreath designations in her memory. May the Lord bless you for your kindness and loyalty. We shall never forget!

Best Way to Celebrate The Peace

We were sitting on Bill Webster's porch the other night, talking about how we'd celebrate when the Japs surrendered. Lem Toller allowed as how he was going to start his vacation then and there—and spend it fishing. Ed Mapes was going to take his family to Mountain City for a big feed and a picture show.

Bill Webster had the last suggestion. "I'm going to pour a glass of beer and drink a toast to our fighting men," he says, "and that is just as far as my celebrating's going to go. I'm going to make sure of being on the job next morning."

From where I sit, Bill Webster has the right idea. When Peace comes, there's going to be a whole new world to build. There's a really big job to be done. A glass of beer, the beverage of moderation, and a good night's sleep to be ready for the task ahead—that's the right way to welcome Victory!

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

THE STATE OF TEXAS

To: George Edward Graves, who is a non-resident of the State of Texas, Greeting:

You are commanded to appear and answer the plaintiff's petition at or before 10 o'clock a. m. of the first Monday after the expiration of 42 days from the date of issuance of this citation, the same being Monday
the 24th day of September, A. D. 1945, at or before 10 o'clock a. m. before the Honorable District Court of Medina County, at the courthouse in Hondo, Texas.

Said plaintiff's petition was filed on the 29th day of May, 1944, at 10 o'clock a. m.

The file number of said suit being
No. 3915.

The names of the parties in said suit are: Norma Lee Stanley Graves, as plaintiff, and George Edward Graves, as defendant.

The nature of said suit being substantially as follows, to wit: Suit for divorce on the grounds of cruel treatment by defendant toward the plaintiff, etc. Plaintiff alleges that on or about August 9th, 1940, in Twinsburg, State of Ohio, plaintiff was legally married to defendant, and they lived together as man and wife until on or about March 1st, 1943, when defendant finally walked out on plaintiff and they have not lived together since. That no children were born to their marriage, and they own no property. Plaintiff prays for judgment dissolving the marriage contract now existing between plaintiff and defendant, and for the use of her maiden sur-name of Stanley instead of the name of Graves. All of which appears more fully in Plaintiff's Original Petition
now on file in my office.

Issued this 7th day of August, 1945.

Given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Hondo, Texas, this 7th day of August, A. D. 1945.

Signed,
(L. S.)

EMIL BRITSCH,
Clerk.

District Court,
Medina County, Texas.

MRS. CHRISTINE WEEBER

Funeral services were held for
Mrs. Christine Weeber at the Horger
Funeral Home at 4 o'clock P. M.
Monday, August 13, 1945, with Rev.
M. J. Lorring, pastor of St. Paul's
Lutheran Church of Hondo officiating.
Interment was made in the New Quibi cemetery. There was a large crowd in attendance, among those present being a number of Lutheran pastors from over the San Antonio Conference, accompanied by their wives, and numerous other friends of the family from Seguin, San Antonio and other distant points. Rev. J. Scherzer of Grace Lutheran church spoke briefly at the cemetery as representative of the Texas District. The pallbearers were deacons from the Quibi-New Fountain parish, namely: F. F. Mumme,
Arthur Grell, Herman Gerdes,
Earl Balzen, John Lindeburg, Arnold Lindeburg and Willie Poehler. The floral offerings were profuse and beautiful.

She was the happy mother of 4 boys and 2 girls, who are now deeply saddened at her passing. She leaves to mourn her departure, her sorrowing husband, Rev. C. Weeber; her sons, Paul of Chicago, Ill.; Hugo
of San Antonio, Herbert of Los Angeles, Calif., and Harold of Honolulu,
T. H. (both the latter are now in civil service of our country), and her two daughters, Esther of San Antonio and Hertha at home; one sister in South Dakota and one brother in Jerome, Idaho; and a host of friends; 3 grandchildren, Esther Christine and Raymond, children of Herbert, and Frederick John, son of Hugo Weeber. Her age was 66 years, 2 months and 23 days.

Rev. Lorring, a former divinity student under the deceased's husband,
Rev. C. Weeber, at Texas Lutheran College, spoke feelingly to the assemblage of sorrowing friends.
From his discourse we are privileged to quote the following tribute to this good woman:

A pilgrim and a stranger,
I journey here below.
Far distant is my country,
The home to which I go.
Here was toil and travail,
Oft weary and oppressed;
But there my God shall lead me
To everlasting rest!

Thus we stand and feel at the passing of Mrs. Weeber. Her given name was Christine Stickel, the daughter of Christoph Stickel and wife, Regina (nee Friedrich). She was born on May 17, 1879, in Tripp, South Dakota. She was baptized in infancy by Rev. Bishoff. As a young girl she attended boarding school and confirmation under the same pastor, Rev. Bishoff. Her childhood days were spent in South Dakota and later when her parents moved South in 1896 to Tibbet Station, Miss., she grew up to womanhood on her parents' ranch. In September 1901, she was united in holy wedlock with Rev. C. Weeber, with Rev.
Gogolin officiating. In 1902 her husband accepted a call to the Corvay Congregation in Texas. After four years of service there, he was called to the Presidency of Brenham Lutheran College at Brenham, Tex.

as, and professor in 1906 and again in 1912, when the college was moved to Seguin, Texas, and her husband served as President and professor.

After the resignation of her husband as President of the College in 1929, Rev. Weeber and family lived in Oklahoma and Iowa. In 1932
Bro. Weeber accepted the call to the Quibi and New Fountain parish where she lived her last 13 years, until her life came to an end.

Mrs. Weeber was of a quiet, modest disposition all her life, but full of energy and circumspection. In later years she was subjected to a long ailment, "Parkinson's disease", (palsy). Although in its early stages
it did not show any serious aspects, yet in the course of time she suffered much under the ravages of that disease, and in the last few years
she had become practically helpless.

She was well taken care of by her daughters, particularly by the youngest,
Hertha, who devoted her time with love and devotion to the welfare of her ailing mother in the most admirable manner. After some 28 years of more or less severe suffering,
Mrs. Weeber departed very suddenly at 12:30 A. M. Thursday, August 9, 1945, with her husband and two daughter present during the last few days and parting moments.

The deceased was a deeply religious woman. Her Redeemer, ever a source of her strength, fully trusting her Saviour, that he had given His full supervision in the course of her life, without making any errors.
Up to her very end the Word of God,
prayer and spiritual advice were her daily spiritual nourishment. We are deeply grateful to her Lord Who had guided her along ways for His selection, but now has brought her deliverance from all bodily torture and constant self-denial.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do

Symptoms may be nagging backache,

HITLER'S CORPUS DELICTI
IN DOUBTFUL LOCATION

WASHINGTON. — The stories about what happened to Hitler and Eva are getting bigger, but worse.

The Russians first suppressed, then announced, then denied the finding of remains of the two who, they said, had been married before the spirit left them.

American reporters have followed about the same experience, the first arrivals at the Chancellery announcing the bodies were not authentically identified, and later ones finding various insignificant proofs that Adolf and Eva died in their officially dug luxurious holes.

Frankly, I want to see the corpus delicti before I believe anything.

The most eminent authorities here frequently have said they believed Hitler dead, but they have never said why or how. An explanatory version, generally accepted among military men, is that German army leaders (the high command) killed Hitler and his girl friend, just as they once are supposed, slyly, to have slain Socialist President Ebert when he refused to leave government, upon their demand, to make way for Marshal Von Hindenburg.

Ebert was subject to indigestion attacks, and was a heavy eater. Following an official dinner and an attack, conspirators rushed him to a hospital where a conspiring surgeon immediately "operated," and Ebert died on the table.

Himmler's story that Hitler died of cerebral hemorrhage is not believed because a Nazi doctor, now our prisoner, examined him in mid-April and found his blood pressure low. But Himmler's concocted story suggests he was a conspirator in Hitler's death in some manner, probably on April 24 or possibly May 1.

May Be Alive.

In less authoritative quarters here, a belief prevails that Hitler is alive under circumstances no more fantastic than numerous other Nazi exploits, to wit:

The whole Hitler end was staged with long-planned, typical attention to details. Hitler called in his Eva, married for no pressing reason except ex-post-facto publicity; also summoned his generals, announced he had reversed his plan of fighting to the end, and intended to die in or about his well kept hole. They pleaded with him for days on bended knees to save himself but he stood firm, and sent them all away so they could not witness further developments.

Drop the curtain for a minute, then find the bodies, well, anyway, some reasonably resembling bodies. To me this always has been the best story since another little Eva crossed the ice, instead of the beyond, with another wolfhound of about equal weight.

What a story to leave the credulous, romantically inclined world! It would be a particularly nice blanket to cover a decision of the Nazi leaders to go separate ways, and meet months hence to renew their political activity for world conquest, which was their basic, inescapable ideal.

Furthermore, this story holds Hitler not only planned his escape but his future life in obscurity.

He had a double, bearing considerable physical resemblance to what he would be when he disguised himself, sans moustache, drooping hairlock, etc., living a life he intended to take over when he escaped. This selfless patriot he would kill and assume that identity when he desired to take over that life. Submerging his own identity in that one, he would be beyond easy detection.

All plans for this were made after Stalingrad, with money, arrangements for physical disguise, locale carefully chosen and known only to Hitler.

Little Eva may have been disposed of, as her presence would decrease, by double, his chances of avoiding detection—although he may have planned with sufficient security to warrant taking her along.

The other Nazi leaders knew nothing of this detailed arrangement but were under orders to scatter into their variously chosen disguises, to assemble six months from date at a certain place, with the money they had hidden, to start in saving the world again. There was to be no political activity in the intervening time.

Those who believe this doubt the current yarns that Hitler chose his better "ole in Spain or Latin America. He was not looking for sympathy or sympathizers, but for oblivion.

Easy-to-Make 'Action' Clothes Just the Thing for Late Summer

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

MOST of us want to keep our pretty wash summer clothes just as long as warm weather persists, with utter disregard as to fixed seasonal calendar dates.

If you are an ardent sports enthusiast, life in the open has doubtfully taken toll of your "action" clothes most of all. You'll find, however, that you can easily fill in the gaps and keep your summer appearance just by stitching up easy-to-laundry cottons and white rayon sharkskin costumes. At your sewing center, you can learn some smart and thrifty short-cut tricks from experts which will help you to achieve chic and good-looking costumes to tide you over for the remainder of the summer season.

First on the replacement list is a simple - to - make one-piece tennis dress of crisp cotton or sharkskin as shown centered in the group illustrated. It has action-free lines throughout and boasts a cool comfort with its deep-cut sleeveless armholes and shapely low neckline. A high-riding, set-in waistband assures perfect fit and flattery for a young lithe figure.

Whether you relax at the beach or countryside, you'll find that your most frequent companion for complete comfort is a ruffled full-skirted pinafore of striped cotton that any beginner can turn out in a few hours at the sewing machine. The pretty model to the left is a shining example of the now-so-popular pinafore mode. When you wash the pinafore, on any cottons for that matter, you can make sure that white will emerge gleaming and colors will all look bright if you dissolve bluing flakes with the soap. This expert technique insures against a danger of streaks and saves time by avoiding need for a separate bluing job. Rinse in two clear waters for perfect results. Now that cottons have become of all-year-round interest, it is well to know the various laundry tricks that will keep them fresh and new looking.

Another way to achieve a perky finish that is dirt-resisting, is to dip all of your cottons in a quart of thin starch mixture in which you've dissolved a quarter-cake of a specially prepared wax-like substance. This will keep the iron from sticking and pulling, and you can iron your clothes to satiny crispness before they are entirely dry and so by-pass the sprinkling chore.

Cool fillers for any wilting wardrobe are cotton blouses that are classic in style and made of checks and stripes. Combinations of blue and white will make you look as fresh as a summer breeze. You'll find that white sharkskin slacks, as pictured to the right, team beautifully with any of these cotton toppers, thus playing an important role in the wardrobe-stretching program.

Your swank town cotton suits in dark ginghams, checked cottons, black shantung, black eyelet and smart rayon in a linen-like weave will carry through the mid-season triumphantly. In fact, they will give excellent service for school wear and shopping until cool weather actually sets in.

Tricks with ribbon work like magic in reviving a summer frock that needs uplift. Ruffled ribbon shirred and gathered at the neckline ending in a cascade down the bodice opening. A huge bow of ribbon placed at the low neckline or posed at the shoulder, together with a belt of the same ribbon (you can buy the ready-made belts at the ribbon counter) will add new interest to your dark summer print frock. Self-fabric bows made out of left-over scraps of material, one on each jacket pocket, also at the neckline, or placed at the base of a low-cut neckline will add a refreshing note to your costume.

Crownless Type

When the upswept hairdo came "in" this season, it brought a challenge to milliners to create hat types that would take care of the topknot of curls puffs brought en masse to the top of the head. Resourceful milliners found the answer in the crownless hat. By leaving the top crown open milady's hair would not be disarranged. The charming theater hat by Mme. Reine here shown is typical of the new trend toward crownless hats. It is fashioned of black Chantilly lace, bound in velvet and roped in gray pearls. Many of the summer white hats have ruffles of tulle or net or lace banked about the headline of the brim to simulate a crown, though in reality the top is open.

Figurines Latest
In Juvenile Jewelry

Designers are paying a lot of attention this fall to creating jewelry items for youngsters. Something new in the field are the little bracelets from which dangle figurines that are miniature replicas of nursery rhyme characters and fairy tale folk. Painted wooden pins to wear on the lapels of tiny-tot coats consist of lilliputian Russian boys and girls or cunning Dutch maidens and Mexican figures. Hand-painted hearts on a fine silver chain appeal to the little girl of esthetic taste.

The new displays show boxed sets containing necklaces and matching bracelets. For the teen-age group the newest thing is a dog-collar and matching bracelet in bright leather, studded with wee gold hearts. A big heart dangles from the wrist strap. Many pastel jewelry items to be worn with "young teen black" enliven this season's collections of jewelry designed for the very young.

Lace for Luxury Lingerie

The treatment of lace used as part of the garment rather than a trimming is seen in the new slips and gowns. Slips with the entire bodice of lace are shown especially in black, the demand for which is increasing right along. Boudoir coats and robes are very lovely made of allover pastel cotton lace.

Nailhead-Studded Felts

An effective form of trimming is seen on voguish new felt hats for fall which are studded with either bright nailheads or with tiniest satin buttons. Smart accessory ensembles include hat, belt and cuffs of felt, enhanced with matched nailhead trimming.

Gems of Thought

II

1.—Who is this?
2.—It is Jennie. Jennie is a housewife. Jennie is carrying a basket.

3.—What is that in Jennie's basket?
4.—A revolver, a letter from her senator, some credentials from her minister, a coil of rope, a map, a megaphone and a large bundle of money.

5.—Where is Jennie going?
6.—Jennie is going to try to get some eggs.

7.—Will she get some bacon, too?
8.—Don't be redick.

III

1.—Oh, see the egg! It is not like the egg in Chapter I.

2.—No. The egg has been polished, taken to market, card indexed, graded, stamped and given wound stripes.

3.—How does an egg get wound stripes?
4.—If you had to go through the wars that an egg has to go through in getting from the farm to the consumer you would have wound stripes.

IV

1.—Jennie is looking at the egg, isn't she?
2.—There are 67 people ahead of her, though.

3.—Will Jennie get the egg?
4.—No.

V

1.—Where is Jennie going now?
2.—She has left the store. She is going to a bingo party.

3.—Why?
4.—The door prize is one egg.

5.—Will she have a better chance to get the egg there?
6.—It won't be any worse.

2.—This is a maker of adages. He is author of the adage "Never place all your eggs in one basket."

3.—What is he doing?
4.—He is changing the adage to read: "Never use a basket to get negative answers."

IN THE FOG

Ernie and Erbie and Clement A.—
A Big Three of their own are they;
John Bull with dripping, furrowed brow,
He hardly knows the old place now!

"Truman in Frankfurt Review."— Headline.
Is this the first formal recognition of the hot dog in the global setup?

To a Jap his old position balanced on top of a high ladder in a circus must today seem a position of comparative security.

Robert S. Wilson has been named the new United States rubber administrator. He is reported to have plenty of bounce.

The Pullman company announces that after the war the old fashioned diner will largely disappear, to be replaced by a hot and cold buffet, or "Smorgasbord" car. Huge platters of "tempting dishes"—foods will be piled on a center table, from which the passengers will take their choice. The old cry "Last call for dinner" will disappear. This is okay with us, although we doubt that the railroads have even a remote idea what constitutes "tempting dishes."

Nothing in the general record to date so indicates. If anything on the diners today is tempting, we will eat the flagmans lantern, without mustard. Of course the war is largely responsible, but in peace days we never once heard anybody leave a dining car exclaiming "Boy, wasn't that dinner a knockout!"

A Harvard board has decided that the present educational system there, in most colleges and in high schools is pretty defective. It must make a university blush to find that it has been teaching the wrong stuff for over 100 years.

The board says Harvard has been educating the boys in specialties and neglecting the all-around general education necessary to develop the intelligent and sound citizens.

Howard Hughes is completing a giant airplane that will have eight motors, carry 750 passengers and be big enough to support a super-fortress on each wing. The general idea is to assure airplane tourists every discomfort they can find on the ground.

Joe Stalin is now the only survivor of the original Big Three. He must have moments when he wonders whether he is conferring with some team mates or just helping break in a junior membership.

Company Dinners Easy to Prepare Even on Slim Budget

Green beans take on extra appeal when prepared with shrimp and a curry sauce. They make a colorful as well as point-free dish for dinner guests.

Company dinners on a slim budget? Yes, indeed, they're possible even in these times. Your company will get poetical about economical dinners if they're well cooked and attractively served.

You can make meat go a long way but still have lots of flavor if you turn out a dish of rice and meat balls, dressed in its best with cucumber lily garnishes and a nest of parsley. Or, try a completely point-free meal in the Green Bean and

Shrimp Curry. Desserts do not lack for appeal. Fresh fruits, now in plenty, can make a beautiful platter all by themselves; and then, there's a variety of desserts that can be whipped up with sugar substitutes.

Company Dinner Menu I.
Chilled Orange Juice
*Green Bean and Shrimp Curry
Molded Fruit Salad
Iced Tea Hot Rolls Relishes
Lemon Chiffon Pie
*Green Bean and Shrimp Curry.
(Serves 5 to 6)

2 cups cooked string beans
2 tablespoons bacon drippings
2 small onions, chopped
2 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup water
1 cup cooked shrimp, cleaned
Drain cooked beans, reserving liquid. Melt drippings in saucepan, add onion and cook slowly until browned. Remove from heat, add flour and stir until well blended. Add curry powder, salt and pepper. Add bean liquid and water. Cook until slightly thickened, stirring constantly. Add beans and mix well. Cook for 3 minutes, add shrimp and serve with hot, fluffy rice.

Company Dinner Menu II.
Hot Vegetable Broth Crackers
*Chili Meat Balls Mashed Potatoes
Green Peas and Celery
Cucumber-Lettuce Salad Rolls
*Mint Grapefruit Ice

*Chili Balls.
(Serves 12)
1 pound ground beef
1 pound lean pork, ground
1 beaten egg
1/2 cup milk
2 1/2 cups uncooked rice
1 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoons salt
2 1/2 cups cooked tomatoes
2 1/2 cups water
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon chili powder

Mix meats; add egg, milk, rice, 1 teaspoon chili powder and salt. Form into small 1 1/2-inch balls; brown in hot fat. Combine tomatoes, water, onion and remaining seasonings. Bring to a boiling point and drop in chili balls. Cover; cook slowly 1 1/2 hours. Chili powder may be omitted if desired.

*Mint Grapefruit Ice.
(Serves 4 to 6)
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2 1/4 cups grapefruit juice, canned or fresh
1/2 cup water
3/4 cup sugar
Peppermint flavoring
Green coloring

Soften gelatin in 1/4 cup grapefruit juice; combine water and sugar; stir over low heat until sugar dissolves. Add softened gelatin; stir until dissolved. Combine with grapefruit juice and add a few drops of peppermint flavoring and green coloring to make a delicate green. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until firm. Pile into grapefruit shells or tall glasses.

S-T-R-E-T-C-H the Meat: With civilians getting only about one-half the meat of former years, economy in its use is the watchword. Do it this way:
Serve meat in stew but extend it with noodles, dumplings and vegetables.
Extend ground meats with cereals such as oatmeal, cornmeal, bread and cracker crumbs.
Stuff cuts like heart, breast, etc., with your favorite dressing.
Use the soup bones, shanks, knuckles, and other inexpensive, bony cuts for rich-flavored soups.
Combine leftover meats, ground, with potatoes and other vegetables for hash.

Company Dinner Menu III.

Beverage

*Poached Lake Trout.

(Serves 6)
1 1/4-pound lake trout
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup water
4 slices lemon
1/2 teaspoon allspice
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 sprig parsley
2 cups medium white sauce
Juice of 1/2 lemon
2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped

Place cleaned fish in skillet or long pan; add combined milk, water, lemon slices, salt and parsley. Cover and cook for 20 minutes. Carefully remove to platter. Combine white sauce, lemon juice and hard-cooked eggs; pour over fish and serve at once.

Cool as a sherbet is this grapefruit mint ice served prettily in grapefruit shells—a perfect ending to a warm evening dinner.

*Regal Pudding.

(Serves 6)
1/2 cup honey or corn syrup
2 tablespoons flour
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 beaten egg
2 cups milk, scalded
1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract

Combine syrup or honey, flour, salt, egg yolks and whole egg. Add small amount of milk; blend and stir into remaining milk. Cook in double boiler, stirring constantly. Cool, add vanilla extract. Pour into sherbet glasses and chill. Top with the following:

Beat 2 egg whites until stiff; fold in 2 tsp. light corn syrup, beating constantly. Slowly add 1 1/2-ounce square melted unsweetened chocolate, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract and 1/8 teaspoon salt. Chill.

Cold Sliced Meat in Aspic.

(Serves 8)
1 envelope plain, unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1 1/2 cups consommé, highly seasoned
1/2 cup cooked peas
1 cooked beet, sliced
1 hard-cooked egg, sliced
Slices of ham
Slices of chicken or veal

Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot consommé. Pour a thin layer into a mold that has been rinsed in cold water. When it stiffens, arrange on it decorations of the peas, beet, and egg. Cover with a little more of the gelatin mixture which has been allowed to stiffen slightly. Dip other pieces of the decorations in the aspic and set them against the chilled sides of the mold. When these have stiffened, fill mold alternately with slices of the ham, chicken, and thickening aspic. When firm, unmold on a bed of lettuce leaves. Garnish with radish roses. Slice for serving.

Vitamin-Enriched Pork

While pork is recognized as one of the richest sources of thiamin among the natural and universally consumed foods, experiments at Washington State college showed that they could make this good source even better by artificially enriching the pork and by feeding the hog with vitamin enriched food.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

FRANCES LANGFORD, who's doing such a swell job on that radio program that she heads, got just what she wanted in a scene for RKO's "Radio Stars on Parade." Starred with Wally Brown and Alan Carney in the musical, which has "Truth or Consequences" Ralph Edwards, Skinnay Ennis and his band, Frances found the studio set the scene of a revival of Hollywood slapstick technique. This included the use of custard pies as missiles. "Ever since I started making pictures I've wanted to throw a pie at someone," said she. "It seemed such fun. I found it was." Alan Carney was on the receiving end of the pastry, and found Frances' aim as good as her voice.

When George Burns and Gracie Allen left the air for the summer, they agreed not to speak of their radio work again till it came time to prepare for the fall series. Violation of the pact to cost the violator a dollar. George owes Gracie $28, she owes him $18.

After 10 years of starring male names exclusively, "Your Hit Parade" shatters a precedent by starring Joan Edwards, who's been on the program four years. She also gets a big salary boost and a long-term contract. Joan's lucky star (and a lot of good hard work, plus plenty of talent) have put her right on top. She returned home from Hollywood with offers from 20th Century-Fox and Warner Bros.

Glenn Vernon, Robert Clarke and Jim Jordan Jr., have been cast to play inmates of the notorious 18th century London lunatic asylum Bedlam, in "Chamber of Horrors," at their own request. The canny young men realized that those roles are sure scene-stealers.

Andy Russell not only has a gilt-edged voice, he also has the golden touch, apparently. Recently Andy, who makes his screen debut in "Stork Club," bought a metal plating plant on the Los Angeles East Side, where he was born. And promptly got a large government order, as well as some for the civilian market. His brother, Freddy Rago, runs the plant for him.

Eddy Hutton presented "graduating" members of B. G. DeSylva's "Stork Club" company with war bonds wrapped to resemble diplomas when shooting on the picture was finished. They were distributed from a basket decorated with a cork in cap and gown.

Eddie Bracken's fans came down with more than 150 suggestions for naming the new baby. But it was announced that they'd picked a boy, to be named Michael. One of the fans suggested "Michael," but the Brackens settled on Caroline Jean.

Clark Gable and Joan Blondell due to sing "The Trolley Song" for a short sequence in Metro's "The Big Adventure," in which he stars with Greer Garson. When she said that they were also to sing "I'd Like to Buy a Farm," the blond turned to Director Victor Fleming and demanded "Who are we—Nelson Gable and Jeanette MacDonald?" Who knows—maybe this is the beginning of a new singing team.

Connee Eastwell, who first became known as a member of the Boswell Sisters, has been signed for an important role in "Swing Parade," the diagram musical starring Gale Storm and Phil Regan. Among other numbers, Connee will sing "Stormy Weather."

ODDS AND ENDS Vacationing at Newport beach, Humphrey Bogart bagged a laugh when the new Mrs. Bogart sat down on the rail, slipped, and landed in the water. . . . Anna Lee's first picture came becoming an American citizen is the Boris Karloff "Chamber of Horrors." . . . When he's not acting in Pin-Thomas thrillers, Bob Lovery hires him to Laguna beach and dives for a blonde. . . . Edward G. Robinson has played real cops so frequently that he swears real policemen mistake him for some fellow whose face is familiar, but whose name they can't recall. . . . Gene Krupa was invited to lecture on the native African drumming at the American Museum of Natural History.

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERNS

Simple, Flattering Daytime Frock

1374
36-52

A CHARMING daytime frock for the woman who likes uncluttered simplicity. The gored skirt is slenderizing and very flattering to the larger figure. Shoulder tucks give a soft, feminine air.

Household Hints

Never use waxed thread in stitching wools. In pressing, heat of the iron melts wax and leaves a greasy line. This gathers dust and may attract moths.

To remove stains from a vase or bottle, put into it two tablespoons salt and four tablespoons vinegar and shake well. Let stand for several hours, then empty and rinse out in hot soapsuds.

Try a dash of cinnamon on cold watermelon.

Varnish the soles of children's shoes, allow them to harden, then varnish a second time. This will render them impervious to dampness and also make them wear longer.

Pattern No. 1374 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 38 requires 4 yards of 35 or 39-inch material.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

Even Then the Farmer's Wife Was Nameless

Having accumulated a tidy little nest-egg, the old farmer went to a lawyer and said he would like to make a will.

"I'll leave all my money, house and stock to my good wife," he said, "so just you write it out plain for me."

"Certainly," said the lawyer. "What is your wife's name?"

After thinking for some minutes the farmer had to admit he couldn't remember it.

"Well, go to the door and shout upstairs as if you were calling her down," suggested the lawyer.

Hobbling to the door, the farmer opened it and roared up the stairs:

"Missus! Missus! Missus!"

GROUND GRIPS.

Best on EVERY job...
Under ALL Conditions

40% LONGER TREAD LIFE

14% STRONGER CORD BODY

UP TO 16% MORE DRAWBAR PULL

GOOD tractor tires do two things. They get every ounce of pulling power from your tractor. They stay on the job. That's why Firestone Ground Grips are best on every job . . . under all conditions.

There are sound reasons for this. Cord bodies are 14% stronger . . . able to withstand hard knocks. Tread life is 40% longer . . . capable of giving years of extra service.

Firestone Ground Grips increase pull at the drawbar by as much as 16%. That's because traction bars are connected, adding up to 215 inches of traction bar length per tractor. Also, there are no broken-bar, trash-catching pockets. The strong, sturdy bars are always clean . . . ready to take the next deep, forceful traction step.

That's why it is just sound economy, when buying tractor tires, to demand Ground Grips, made by Firestone, the pioneer and pacemaker.

For the best in music, listen to the "Voice of Firestone" every Monday evening over NBC network.

THE LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

I see where Mr. Jackson, our top man in France, is getting ready to open court to see if any German is guilty of something, and he says up to now, no plan of going ahead has been agreed upon between the Allies. Our fighters waded in and won wars — and then the cutaway coat boys dilly-dally. By the time
a lot of Germans ever come to trial, the sob artists will be on deck with souffles for the prisoners, and we can turn half of 'em loose to start planning the next war, which we will be expected to get into — and again.

We need to get off the dime and stamp down on the guilty, and then start trimming Germany down to controllable size. Give Denmark and Belgium and all the little bordering states a digestible slice of Hunland, and they will have space and elbow room to keep what is left of Germany, at arm's length.
But back to the bloody and guilty
— everybody thought that they fixed that up at the Yalta meetin', or party, or whatever it was but she looks now like they musta talked about something else — like maybe what the catcher whispered to the pitcher — and the batter hit the ball over the left field fence.
Yours with the low down,
JO SERRA.

TO RETURNEES

Many returning veterans are going into business for the first time. Come see men who have never been an employer of labor before. These individuals are reminded that any new employer should file an application with the Social Security Board for an identification number for the business. This is necessary ever though only one person is on the payroll, and perhaps works only part time. Each employer is required to keep a record of the worker's social security account number for use when it comes time to make out the social security tax return to the collector of internal revenue.

Interested individuals, who live outside of San Antonio, should watch the newspapers of their cities for the announcement of when a representative of that office will visit their community. New employers may secure identification numbers
by writing the Social Security Board,

HEALTH NOTES

According to Dr. Geo. W. Cox,
State Health Officer, there are too many persons who approach the choice of a family physician casually. Viewing the doctor much as a fireman, whose services are required only in an emergency, such families wait until an illness strikes, and then get hold of the first doctor who can respond to the call. While such an attitude still reasonably assures one of satisfactory medical services, it can handicap the physician somewhat, and in the long run does not permit the supervision and close personal contact which only can exist
by having a regular family doctor.

"Knowing his patients enables a physician to give advice on maintaining health and preventing disease based on his intimate knowledge of the physical and mental make-up of the members of the family," Dr.
Cox stated. "The casually summoned physician plainly cannot have this background or opportunity."

"People are far from being alike," he continued. Bodily and mental characteristics markedly differ in members of the same family. Reactions to medicines of various types, the habits of the individual, environmental influences, and personal factors vary widely. Armed with an intelligent appreciation of these facts, as applied to the members of the family, a physician possesses the maximum opportunity to render his best service."

Dr. Cox declared that in such case of only is the physician in a better position to treat occasional illness but can act as an advisor regarding disease preventions, living habits, and the general health of all those comprising the family group. He has not only one who cares for a specific illness, but becomes a medical counselor to the family as a whole.

Medina County Health Unit.

Rheumatic heart disease is now
the first cause of death among children aged 10 to 14, and is second only to tuberculosis at ages 15 to 25.
Despite the importance of this disease its epidemiology is not completely established. No vaccine such as those that prevent typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, and whooping cough has yet been developed for its prevention or control. We do know, however, some of the danger signals and with the physician's accurate diagnosis some of the damaging results of the disease may be prevented.

Exposure to frequent chilling, damp or overcrowded living quarters, a poor diet, an attack of scarlet fever, a bad cold or other infection caused by certain streptococcus germs are likely to be predisposing factors in the appearance of rheumatic fever.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, points out that in general the danger signals of rheumatic fever are pain and swelling in the joints of the knees, ankles, elbows, or wrists.
The pain usually is felt in one of these centers and spreads it to the others. Oftentimes a child will get irritable and cross without any visible signs of a good reason for this attitude; he may cry easily or develop habits of nervousness. A physician should be consulted at once in such a situation, for these symptoms may be the beginning of rheumatic fever.

According to Dr. Cox the best safeguard against this disease are to have each child examined at least once a year by a physician, to have the right kinds of food and plenty of rest. When the disease is suspected of being present, a doctor should be consulted at once, and if he prescribes complete bed rest, his advice should be implicitly followed.

LIBRARY SERVICE

Do Texans know there there is a large public library that lends books by mail free except for a small transportation charge? It is located in Austin and is called the Texas State Library. It has an excellent collection of books which can be borrowed by any citizen in the State. There are many of the newest and most popular books of both fiction and non-fiction besides the books by standard authors, and books on almost any subject such as those on various kinds of business, travels, history, all kinds of hobbies, art, literature and religion. There are books suitable for everyone, from pre-school age through high school and for the grown-ups. Now during vacation time the school boys and girls have more leisure. Many hours could be happily and profitably spent in reading some of the beautiful books written just for them. All one needs to do to borrow books is to write the Library stating what books are desired. If the borrower wishes certain books, the authors and titles should be given, or the borrower can request books on subjects in which he is interested if specific books are not required, and the librarian will elect something or furnish the names of books on the desired subjects.
When borrowing for children, the ages or grades at school should be given.

One book or several—enough for the whole family—can be borrowed at one time; or a large collection can be borrowed by a group of neighbors or a community. When one book or a small collection is borrowed, it may be kept for three weeks and renewed for three weeks if de-

If You Had MY JOB

KEEPING HOUSE, helping take care of the family—you would realize that business girls are not the only ones who sometimes get Headache and Tired Aching Muscles. We home girls often work just as hard and have just as many Headaches, just as many Stomach Upsets and get just as Tired.

About a year ago, I first used

ALKA-SELTZER

I find that it eases my Aching
Head, takes the kinks out of Tired, Aching Muscles, and brings relief
when I have Acid Indigestion.

The family says I am a lot easier to live with since I have known about Alka-Seltzer.

Have you tried ALKA-SELT-ZER? If not, why don't you get a package today? Large package 60¢, Small package 30¢, also by the glass at Soda Fountains.

sired; a large collection lent to a group may be kept for three months.
The only cost for borrowing is the postage charge from the library and return. This is four cents for the first pounds and one cent for each additional pound, which amounts to very little. The borrower refunds the postage required to send the books when the books are returned.

For Feet That Swoosh With Offensive Odor
Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Back
Don't wait another day. You can move the disagreeable odors quickly with a few drops of this powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil.
Druggists everywhere who know, say Emerald Oil is the speediest and most effective preparation they have ever had for aching, perspiring, ill-smelling feet.
The very minute that this wonderful foot balm touches these sore, tender, aching feet, you will get relief. It's simply amazing how quickly it acts, and how nothing just as good.
